Transplant trees and quicksets, lop and prune fruit-trees and vines; nail up wall-fruit, cleanse them from moss, carry out your dung, and lay it on heaps where you intend to sow beans, oats and barley, and spread it about the middle of the month, if the weather be mild; Prepare your soyl, trench ground, and uncover roots of trees.

In your Garden sow lettuce, radish, chervile, and salletting in hot beds; dig hop-gardens, turn up bee-hives, and sprinkle them with wort: plant anemony-roots, preserve them with Ranunculus's from rain and wet.

Februarys Observations.

Dung your pastures, and sow oats beans, gray-pease, fitches, asparagus, radish, parsnips, carrots, onions, garlick and annise; plant vines, cabbage-plants, potatoes, caly-flowers, parslly, spinnage, and other hard pot-herbs; set nuts and stones, and kernels of other hard fruit. Plant fruit-trees, vines, hops, shrubs, poplars, osiers and willows; begin to graft for dates, plumbs, cherries, apples, and cleanse them from moss and manker.

March

March's Observations.

- If it be dry weather, sow Lettuce, spinage, purslane, parsnips, carrots, turnips, skirrets, parsley, cabbage, creases fennel, marjoram, pinks, sweet-william, pine, kernels, firr-seeds, bays, endive, radish, leeks, onions, garlick, succory, beets, bugloss, burrage and chervile. Graft fruit-trees, transplant jessamine, anemony-roots, madder, liquorish, seedlings, and fibrous-roots. Fence and dung your fields, meadows and gardens.

April's Observations.

This is a good time to set offiers, slips of artichokes, lavender, time, rosemary, and other garden-plants, to fell timber, and strip barks when 'tis wet; but when it is dry, sow marjoram, hyssop, basil, time, savory, scurvy-grass, radish, marygolds, pinks, carnations, clove-gillyflowers, barley, and french-beans; transplant tender shrubs, and clip shrubs and quicksets after rain.

May's Observations.

Now is a good time to sow lettuce, purslane, painted beans, marjoram, thyme, hot and aromatick herbs, and barley in hot sandy ground. Grub up Copices, get home your fewel, weed corn, gardens and quicksets, drain wet grounds, overcharge not your pastures, clear them of stones, uncover cucumbers, melons, &c. shade carnations and clove-julyflowers after mid-day; supply your housed plants with fresh earth, plant stock-julyflowers in beds; about the 8th day gather anemony seeds, make up dried tulips, and cover such as are bare.

June's Observations.

Inocculate roses, apricocks, peaches, cherries, plumbs, apples and pears; cleanse ditches, pools, rivers and fens, set saffron and aromatick herbs, gather and dry herbs to keep (about the Full of the Moon) in the Sun, water trees but lately planted, hive your swarms; fallow your land to kill the weeds, carry out marl, sand, lime and dung; weed corn, wash and shear your sheep, sow rapeseed, turnips, lettuce, chervile and radish.

July

July's Observations.

This is a good season to plant young trees, prune apricocks and peaches; saving the most likely shoots; lay myrtles, julyflowers, carnations, hops, young plants and layers, clip box after rain, water new gravel walks to destroy worms and weeds with brine, decoction of tobacco, or pot-ashes; make gooseberry and raspberry-wine, remove tuips, get home firing, mow grass, gather early hemp and flax, sow turnips, lettuce and radish.

August's Observations.

Gather such fruits as you intend for Cyder, pull up onions, gather olatory-seeds, slip gillyflowers, take up the bulks of lillies, remove and lay perennial greens; dispatch your harvest, and inoculate early, and unbind such as were inoculated a month since; prune superfluous branches, pull up succours, transplant and sow such things as will endure all winter.

Septem.

Septembers Observations.

Now sow lettuce, radish, spinnage, parsnips, skirrets, calyflowers, cabbage, scurvy-grass, anniseeds, and winter-herbs; gather ripe winter-fruit in dry weather. break up land for next years fallow, and towards the latter end begin to sow wheat and rye, make good fences, drain new sowed corn, beat out hempseed, and water hem, bind up flowers and plants to stocks, slip and replant all sorts of garden-flowers, transplant most sorts of esculent and physical herbs, artichokes, asparagus, strawberries, hepatica, hellebore, camomile, captuaries, matricarius, violets, primroses, and all other fibrous plants.

Octobers Observations.

Gather fruit in dry weather, and in the decrease of the Moon; lay bare the roots of old unthriving or overhasty blooming trees; plant tulips, quicksets, and trees of all sorts after the leaves are fallen; but be sure not to graft vvall-trees till they be a year old; this is also a good time to trench ground for orchards and kitchen-gardens, and to sow wheat, pease, plumbs, cherries, nuts, ash-keys, acorns, crabs, peach-kernels, almond-stones, and all other hard kernels.

Novem-

November Observations.

Novv plant forrest-trees for vwalks, avenues and groves, roses, fibrous roots, althaea-frutrex, lilax, syringas, cerylas, peonies and tulips under shelter of the earth, not being too rich; turn your melon-ground, and mingle it vvith earth and lay it in ridges for the spring; trench and fit ground for artichokes, set early beans and pease, and gather the remainder of your winter-fruit. Cut coppice-vvood for future use or sale; break hemp and flax, prune trees, lay up stocks against the spring; cover beds of asparagus, artichokes, stravyberries, peeping, ranunculus and auricula-seeds.

December Observations.

Prune, plant, and nail vines and vwall-trees, set kernels, dung and trench for bordering fruit-trees, cover asparagus, artichokes and strawberry-beds with hot horse-dung; preserve choice flowers from vveter, and bees from starving and cold. In fine weather give air to your fruit and conservatory, and dry up liquorish. Drain corn-fields, and cut all sorts of vvood and timber that you vvould have the vvorms to shun.
